Wanted: Exceptional students interested in pursuing doctoral studies at the intersection of computing, mathematics, materials, and manufacturing, and how to transform research ideas into entrepreneurship opportunities. Participants must be U.S. citizens enrolled in a Ph.D. program at Georgia Tech by the time they begin participation in the program. Women and minority students are especially encouraged to apply.

FLAMEL: From Learning, Analytics and Materials to Entrepreneurship and Leadership Doctoral Traineeship Program

IGERT Program Highlights:

• Two-year traineeship program
• Interdisciplinary graduate program
• Support of $30,000 per year plus education expenses
• Entrepreneurship opportunities
• Industry internships at top-tier corporations
• Continual program assessment and improvement
• Annual workshop to enhance program experience
• Weekly “Chalk-and-Talk” Lunch Series

Questions?

Contact Holly Rush at holly@cc.gatech.edu or visit www.flamel.gatech.edu